Sanoh UK Manufacturing Ltd

Temporary Loading Canopy

SOLUTION:

Global automotive parts manufacturer Sanoh UK needed a place to load large lorries with their automotive tubing products. It was extremely important that the parts were protected from the weather, otherwise they could rust. A vehicle's braking system is just as crucial to a vehicle and its performance as the engine. So, if the automotive tubing got wet and rusted, it could become faulty and potentially life threatening within a car. The ultimate solution was to install a Spaciotempo loading canopy for all-weather protection.

This enabled protection for all loading operations, from unfavourable weather, so reducing the risk of damaged products. Due to Sanoh Manufacturing only being able to work from a forecast to plan the next day's deliveries, they needed an adaptable canopy, which would enable even the largest of vehicles to be loaded. So, we provided a 30m x 15m temporary canopy on a 6m eave.

Scott Jameson, Spaciotempo's Managing Director explains how we were able to help Sanoh Manufacturing with a simple cost effective solution. "The ability to keep products protected in all weather conditions was extremely important to Sanoh Manufacturing. A temporary loading canopy on a 6m eave meant that even the biggest lorries can park up and load, and Sanoh Manufacturing's team can work in safe, dry conditions to get the job done without the risk of stock damage. The flexibility of a loading bay canopy means that you can have it configured to suit conditions on your site – so whether you want it with no walls, two sides enclosed or even three, we can do that."
